CHIBOUK FOR SHORT.

Desires to Sacrifice the Euphony of His Name for Business Reasons. Krikor Chiboukjian, a dealer in rugs at 345 West Broadway, obtained an order from Justice McAdam of the Supreme Court yesterday to curtail his surname by lopping off the "jian." He is an Armenian, unmarried, and 29 years old. In his country, he says, "names 29 years old. In his country, he says, "names more formidable for articulation are common and are uttered with ease and keen appreciation of their euphony and intrinsic beauty."

But he has been naturalized and intends to continue in business here, where euphony and intrinsic beauty in a name fall flat, and his business associates break his name into chunks. Persons with whom he does business, he declares, "do not evince the degree of pleasure" which the pronunciation of his name would call forth in his native country. If the persons he meets are not jocular when they tackle it, he says they show embarrassment and facial motions suggestive of mastication. ment and facial motions suggestive of mastication.

He asks the Court to cut off some of this stumbling block to his business so that he shall not suffer punishment for the "sins of my ancestors in adopting the surrame."

The name of the lawyer who drew up the petition is G. S. Kebabian.

ICE PICK TO MAKE HIS HORSE GO.

Crowd Threatened a Cruel Iceman and a Woman Had Him Arrested. Byron Harrington, the driver of an ice wagon, who lives at 2117 Eighth avenue, was held under $300 bail yesterday in the West Side court for trial on the charge of cruelty to animals. Actrial on the charge of cruelty to animals. According to Mrs. Lillian Joyce, on whose complaint Bicycle Policeman Brennan arrested Harrington, he deliberately jabbed his ice pick into the flank of one of his horses to make it go faster, inflicting a cruel wound. He repeated this several times, Mrs. Joyce said. A crowd gathered at Forty fourth street and Eighth avenue, where the ice wagon was at the time, and the men in the crowd threatened to punch the driver if he didn't stop abusing the horse. Harrington's plea was that the ice pick slipped.

The Greatest Sale of Oriental Rugs That Ever Any Enterprise Has Offered.

The myriad-tinted colors of the Orient, soft and lustrous, fascinating alike to artist and artisan, will hold high carnival here this week. It is the annual assembling of the Oriental Rugs, the anniversary of an event which has made the Rug Store famous among connoisseurs for valuable "finds" as are the Kimberley Mines among diamond hunters. India, Afghanistan, Persia, Beloochistan, southern Russia, Turkey-all the strange, sunny lands of the Orient have been ransacked by experts, gathering choice Rugs for this sale, Rugs that seem to reflect again the warm tones of the sunlight in which they were woven years and years ago. A thousand and ninety-four handsome Rugs have been gathered, selected and selected again from more than four times that number, and now are to

A Quarter to a Half Less Than Regular Prices.

It is impossible to give any idea of them by description—Oriental Rugs are as various as the kaleidoscope. Most of these are antique, soft as silk or satin, their brilliant colors made harmonious by the lapse of years. It is the finest collection we have ever assembled for the lowest prices for which such Rugs were ever offered. If six months hence you are dissatisfied, we will be glad to take the Rugs back and give you credit. Here are price hints; but a sight of the Rugs themselves will, better than anything else, give you notion of their wonderful value:

$3 Panne Silk Velvets, $1.98.

2,200 yards for the lowest price ever offered anywhere. This is an event in silk selling that must be memorable. Panne Velvet is one of the newest as it is one of the most fashionable of fabrics. Its soft. velvety nap and rich, shimmering luster make it especially attractive. So liked is it that makers have had all they could do to supply the demand.

This collection is of the very best quality—every threat of silk, which means better wear, of course, than the cotton back sort. The colors include all the most desirable ones, not missing the latest Parisian shades. Such Panne Velvets are sold generally for $3 a yard—we have sold thousands of yards for little under that. To-morrow, though, this gathering, the result of an odd merchandising chance, will be ready at $1.98 a yard. Promptness is wisdom.

A Sale of Black Taffeta Silks.

CHARGES AGAINST A SHERIFF. The Governor Asked to Remove Sheriff Cald-ALBANY, Sept. 8.—The Governor has been New Model

asked to remove Emmor J. Caldwell of Ballston as Sheriff of Saratoga county on the grounds of malfea-ance and incompetency in not suppressing gambling in Saratoga. John Burke Hennessey, editor of a reform magazine published in New York city, is the complainant. He has been interested in closing up New York city gambling places. One of his editorial writers, Martin Ryan, in the latter part of August, called on Sheriff Caldwell at Ballston and asked for his company on a tour of the Saratoga gambling joints.

"The Sheriff," says Mr. Ryan in substance in his affidavit filed with the Governor, "said he had no time to go with me, but finally agreed to meet me in the evening at the Worden House in Saratoga at 7 o'clock. I was there at the appointed hour, but was received rudely by the clerk, who said the Sheriff had telephoned he could not meet me. I made a tour of the gambling places on my own responsibility and was dogged by policemen who, when I tried was dogged by policemen who, when I tried to ascertain their number, placed a hand over their shield so that I could not. Among the places I visited were the Empire, Phoenix and Union clubs, Canfield's and the Klondike, sewell as places where the Saratoga colored help were wont to congregate, and usually games of roulette, fare and poker were in progress. As I was about to enter two places the doors were shut in my face, but not before I saw Sheriff Caldwell inside. He had evidently been around tipping the proprietors of the gambling establishments. When I returned to the railroad station on, my way to New York I was followed by four ruffians who attempted to interfere with my progress."

The Governor referred the matter to his legal adviser, Mr Charles Z, Lincoln, who has written a letter calling the Governor's attention to the provisions of law prohibiting gambling and saying that the Sheriff can be removed if he does not enforce the law Mr Lincoln, however, advised the Governor not to act until he had informed the District Attorney and Sheriff of Saratoga county of the existence of gambling in Saratoga, and added that it would be time enough for the Governor to act if the Saratoga county officials refused to enforce the law. The charges and Mr Lincoln's opinion will be turned over to the acting Governor. Timothy L. Woodruff, when he reaches here on Monday to ascertain their number, placed a hand over
